While words fail to capture the pain of losing a loved one, we look forward to the time when words will fail to capture the joy of having our heavenly Father return your dear one to you. The bible hold out to us a truly beautiful promise. This wonderful promise of hope is recorded at Daniel 12:2 "And many of those asleep in the dust of the earth will wake up, some to everlasting life." Imagine our dear loved ones, whom we have lost in death, just sleeping waiting to wake up again and be reunited with us. How we long for that special day so close at hand.

1st off it was an honor and a pleasure to know such a great woman. There are so many memories from our childhood being neighbors that I could share but, I have 1 that comes to me every time I think of her. One day the boys were in the back with some friends and were just goofing around. Patty was in her back yard, (next door), the boys kept messing with her and she told them if they didn't stop she was going to jump the fence and get them all. They didn't believe her and kept going, so she put her hands on the fence and in 1 bounce she was over it and running after the boys. She showed as agile she was that day. Her feet never hit the fence to push off either. The boys were in shock and never messed with her after that. I could go on and on about some of the best childhood memories for us. You will be missed by so many of us. If I know my mother she was waiting with a cup of coffee when you arrived in heaven.
