Jeff, It's impossible to properly express how sorry I am about Cindy's passing, especially so soon after losing your Dad. What I can say with utter confidence, however, is that you were a loyal and loving brother. I know that this last week, and the months ahead will not be easy, but I hope that in time you and your family are able to find peace. Please do not hesitate to call on me if I can do anything to be of service during this difficult time.

Jeff. I am so sorry that you have gone through so much sorrow in recent years. Please let me know if you want to talk. Did you know that your parents lived upstairs in our semi-finished attic, shortly after they were married? I think Cheryl, Joe Denine and I drove them out by showing up upstairs unannounced. Over the years, we always knew when Donny and Sue had arrived from New Orleans for a visit, as Donny would leave a Confederate flag sign in our window, announcing, "The South Shall Rise Again".Your mom would take all us kids to the playground with Cindy. We all loved Sue and Cindy so much.I wish we could have the chance to meet you, but you came along so much later in our lives, our paths just haven't crossed as yet. I, in particular, feel a special connection with you.Bless you and your family,Craig Hritz
