Margaret Jackson lit a candle in honor of Ralph.

The first time I had the pleasure to meet Grampy, was at my son Lonnie's, wedding to Grampy's daughter Niccole, and when I say pleasure, that is an "understatement!" After we were introduced, he sat next to me, and for several hours, I was totally absorbed in the sound of his voice, as he shared one interesting detail after another about his full, well-lived life, and the lessons life taught him along the way!After our first encounter at the wedding, I looked forward to every family event I knewwe'd both attend, so I could hear more of what Grampy had to say!What a treasure you were while here, Ralph J. Ryan the IIIAnd how deep you will be missed!R.I.P Dear GrampyMuch Love AlwaysMargaret Jackson

Laura Colson lit a candle in honor of Ralph.

Grampy was a very special guy that always had something funny and wise to say. I didn't have the pleasure of knowing him like I should have but the few moments we shared were memorable and I will keep close to my heart. Love,Laura Colson
