You were not just friends to our family, but you were family. Growing up with you, we all had so much fun. Watching you and your brothers stroll down to our house in just your underwear and cowboy boots, something i have always remembered on how happy you were with those boots :) I will always remember us playing for hours, baseball, riding bikes, kickball, building snowmen or igloo's in our yard and hanging out in it, or getting into so much trouble, just being kids, lol, so much more. One thing I know is how much you loved your family. Family was everything to you, my brother Jimmy and I was just talking the other day, and he said that he admired you so much, on how you started your own business, and have done so well for yourself and your family. You loved your mom, and siblings, children and family so much and that smile of yours will never be forgotten. I will miss all your videos and pictures, I kept up with them daily. You have raised amazing children and you will live daily through them. My prayers our with your entire family and friends, please watch over them, and send them signs that you are with them. May peace be with you. Love Bonnie Coddington-Federico

Dad,I can't even begin to say how hard this is to write, or to even process. I don't understand it at all. I love you so much, I know you knew that. I know you loved me so much too.The way my mind is going, it is impossible to just share one memory. I am looking back at all the trips we went on , the late night food tasting, you yelling at me for not knowing my north and south !!But then I see the smaller things, like you being the only person sitting at the Dave and Busters bar for my 21st birthday and I just wanted to sit with you for a little while because I was so happy and shocked you came, knowing it would mostly just be my friends. How you helped me get my first car, and yelled at me when I drove it all the way home one day when half the frame fell off (I didn't know!)Every time I drive through the metro parks I think of you taking us on rides to look for deer, I think of our motorcycle rides and swaying on the road. I can't even go on a walk with Mom without her telling me about different trees, if they're dead, or how big they've gotten. You have left a little piece of you in everyone you've met.I can go on and on. I know these last couple years were rough for us, and some people may not understand it, maybe we didn't even understand it that well. But I always loved you and thought about you. I implemented things you've taught me in life almost every day.You will be missed for sure, but the way you left a mark on this world, you will certainly never be forgotten.You left this life way too soon, but you certainly lived your life to the fullest every chance you got. I can grieve with some peace in that.I love you so much,Sam

Terry, I'm finding it hard to put twenty eight years of memories into a few sentences. You were my first love, my rock, and my best friend. You've been an amazing father to our three beautiful children and a fun loving Poppa to our Grandbaby. The day you left changed our lives forever. Your memory will continue to inspire us, and we'll keep your spirit alive in our hearts. Please watch over our family, and give them the strength to carry on without you.You will forever in our hearts ❤️Love always, Jay

Cathy Pak lit a candle in honor of Terence.

There are no words that can be written or spoken to ease the pain of losing someone you love. Bink was like a brother to me, even though we haven't spoken in many years, he will always be my brother at heart. My heart and prayers go out to all of you. May you find comfort in his memories. Sending hugs and prayers to all. -Cathy (Soukup) Pak
