Milan "Miles" Castle Johnson, 91, passed away peacefully on August 5, 2025. Born in Cleveland, Ohio, on September 28, 1933, Miles lived a life marked by curiosity, innovation, and deep devotion to family, friends and country.

Raised in North Olmsted, Ohio, Miles was the son of the late Milam and Nelda Johnson. He grew up with his beloved sister, Nancy Wimmer, who passed in January 2025.

Miles met the love of his life, Elizabeth "Betty" Hughes, in Cleveland, and they were married on September 10, 1960. Their enduring partnership spanned nearly 65 years, filled with shared journeys, laughter, and love. Together, they enjoyed their family immensely. Sons Miles (wife Alysia) and Dean, and grandchildren, Cooper and Hope, all carry forward his zeal for adventure.

His professional journey led him to Lockheed Missile & Space Company, beginning in 1962 at Vandenberg Air Force Base in Santa Maria, California. By 1965, he had relocated to Sunnyvale, California, where he spent nearly four decades driving innovation in aerospace. Miles played a pivotal role in satellite design, production, and launch programs, ultimately retiring as Vice President of the Space Systems Division. His leadership helped shape the future of American space exploration.

Miles was a man of many passions. From childhood, he was drawn to building models and electrical toys, a spark that ignited a lifelong love of engineering. He excelled academically and athletically, leading his high school on the track & field high jump team. His mind was always active, analyzing, organizing, and solving problems with boundless energy and enthusiasm.
