“ Sorry Jason, to hear about the passing of your dad. May the memories you two shared, stay in your heart until you two are reunited once again.

“ One of the things I remember about Chuck was that he co-signed on a loan for me so I could buy my first car. I wanted to drive that car so much, even though I didn't have any insurance yet. So, I took it out for a spin. When Chuck found out what I had done, he came to my house and took the battery out of my car until I got my insurance. At the time I was angry, but then I realized he was only trying to protect me. That's who Chuck was - a protector of his family. He certainly protected his wife, Nancy and his son, Jason. He loved his family and would do anything for them. He also loved anything western or native Indian. I will always picture him in my mind wearing his western boots, a cowboy hat, a belt with a large western buckle and his bolo tie. I hope you're in Cowboy Heaven, Chuck and that you're taking care of things up there. You will be missed by all. Be at peace and may God bless you. Love, June
